

TEAM H 1&2

Our opinion about proactive law is that it's important because preventing is better than solving the problem. By preventing you can make a contract or you can negotiate. It's important to make exact contracts because if there comes some disagreements later, they have contracts in paper so arguing is harder.

Why do we think causes entrepreneurs discard legal advice until a legal case presents itself?

Clients expect more for little money. They don't want to spent money for hiring lawyers. One reason why entrepreneurs don't want to hire lawyers, is the reason that the law system is not sustainable. The society is changing so the law should change also. Of course the law is changing but it happens always after the change in society. There are also too many lawyers which lowers the quality because all the lawyers are looking it from their own interests. One thing why entrepreneurs won't possibly want to hire lawyers is that lawyers are doing the work for money, so it is easy to think that is the lawyer doing his job as effectively as possible, because the less time, the less money he gets. Because entrepreneurs want to save money instead of hiring, entrepreneurs can search information from internet.
